"Uplifting The Dignity of Those We Serve"

March 2011

WEDDINGS, eBay, AND FURNITURE

It's wedding time at Brother Benno's Thrift Shop. On Saturday, March 5, the shop will feature dresses for brides, bridesmaids, and mothers of the bride and groom, plus accessories. Wedding guests can also find gifts like crystal, picture frames, silver items, and collectibles (which are always available).

"This event is to help brides on a budget", said Manager Michelle Hoppe. "And we'll be serving wedding punch and cupcakes, too," she added.

A new twist has been added to the Thrift Shop—eBay! Valuable donations that would not bring in much money if sold in the shop are now being auctioned on eBay. Volunteer Diane May is coordinating this project, which in just two weeks has brought in more than $400.

Michelle mentioned one sale in particular that made her very happy. "We had a 1955 Arthur Godfrey ukelele, still in it's original box," she said. "It sold for $180." Apparently, somebody out there knew who Arthur Godfrey was and wanted his uke.

An area in the back of the Thrift Shop that customers don't see has been dubbed "The Man Corner." It's where volunteers Tom and Hector test items before they're put on the floor for sale—things like TV's, radios, lamps, and electronics. "They reorganized the space to make it more usable," Michelle said, "and it's easier now for them to work there."

If you've never been to the Thrift Shop, maybe now's the time! Drop off stuff you don't need around the back, then walk through the front door and find other stuff you can't live without.

BROTHER BENNO'S BRINGS LOVE TO SPECIAL GUESTS

Some people in need are not able to get to the Brother Benno Center for various reasons, but that hasn't stopped our staff members and volunteers from reaching out. The most recent outreach project serves an unlikely group—men and women in long-term health facilities.

This idea actually started years ago, when a volunteer noticed all the flowers that came in with the food donated by local markets. "She asked if she could take some of the flowers to a nursing home," Harold Kutler said, "and that one request became a regular visit for this woman for several years."

When the woman reported back to Harold, she told him that one resident in particular was very touched by receiving the flowers. She said she never had any visitors, and to get flowers was a very precious gift indeed. "We just sat there and cried together," the volunteer said.

Now, a small group of volunteers has rekindled the flowers project—again, with donated flowers. So far, two nursing homes—one in Vista and the other in Oceanside—are the recipients.

"We asked the Activities Director at one place to give us the names of residents who never have any visitors," said Dennis Pinnick, a Servant of the Poor, "and the Director said sadly, 'That would be just about everybody here.'"

Dennis sees this project as one of touching the lives of those they visit in a meaningful way. The volunteers ask the residents if there's anything special they need, like lotion or a book; but the real reason they're there is to show care and concern. He said it's a good thing to give money and to

EXPERIENCING THE BROTHER BENNO SCENE

by Barbara Ladwig

Gratitude. Last fall, Servant of the Poor Denise Seymour came up with the idea of a Gratitude Tree. She put a sheet of paper on a section of the dining room wall at the Brother Benno Center and drew a huge bare-branched tree on it. Volunteers cut out a stack of fall-colored leaves, then everyone—guests, volunteers, Program Members, visitors—were invited to write their reasons for being grateful.

One by one, the leaves “grew” on the tree. Besides the traditional thankful comments like God, family, and friends, some made me pause and reflect on how their gratitude touches my own life. And a few made me smile.

“I am so grateful to the lady that brought in the bag of men’s socks for the Clothing Room.”

“The chance to get my life back.”

“I am grateful that I have so many people in my life that care about my future and what happens to me.”

“I am thankful for the sunshine.”

“Some of God’s gifts are unanswered prayers. For that I am grateful.”

“I’m thankful for pumpkin pie.”

Cuppa Joe. Tom von Betticher reports that Brother Benno’s commercial coffee machine has “bit the dust.” A new one will cost $3,000. “A hot cup of coffee on a cold morning is so important to our Guests,” he said. “Can anyone out there help with all or part of the cost?”

Please call Tom (760-439-1244, ext. 105).

Thanks for Cans. The Center continues to be a drop-off place for aluminum cans for recycling. A few cans here and there from many people adds up to precious money for our services. Just drive around to the back, on the right side of the building, Monday through Friday, 6:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., or Saturday, 8:15 to 12:30. Someone will be there to help you unload your car if necessary, and you’ll get a thank-you and a big smile as well.

Kindness Remembered. Several months ago, a letter arrived at Brother Benno’s from a grateful father in New Jersey. He addressed it “To the Staff of Brother Benno’s:”

“Many years ago, you were kind to my (two) sons when they were in need. Since then, my son M. III passed away due to health complications from years of alcohol use. However, I am happy to report that . . . he was saved and accepted the Lord as his Savior.

“I can’t thank all of you enough for your kindness and help to my sons, and I would consider it a privilege to be able to contribute to your ongoing ministry in my son’s name.

“Enclosed is my check . . . and more will follow on a regular basis in praise to the love of our Lord Jesus and appreciation of His saving blood. Thank you, M.M. Jr.”

Our Inspiration. Brother Benno Garrity would have celebrated his 101st birthday in February, had he lived that long. But even though he died in 1992, his spirit continues to permeate everything at the Foundation named in his honor. In his book, Soup Soap Hugs Hope, the Story of Brother Benno’s Life-Changing Soup Kitchen, Harold Kutler wrote that Brother Benno baked bread at St. Charles Priory in Oceanside (now called Prince of Peace Abbey); and that he gave his bread to the poor, and also to people he thought could help him with his passion—feeding the poor.

“As I learned more about this charming monk,” Harold wrote, “I began to see him as a modern-day Robin Hood, except that he didn’t have to rob anyone. Brother simply gave his bread to those of us who could afford it, and we in turn gave him something for his beloved poor. He didn’t need a bow and arrow; he just hit us over the head with his ‘Wonder Bread.’”

HE'S A VOLUNTEER EXTRAORDINAIRE

Harold Pirlot is known as the “go-to” man in his 55-and-older mobile home park when it comes to donating to Brother Benno's. He and his wife Lois live at Pilgrim Creek Estates in Oceanside, and his neighbors never hesitate to let him know when they have a bag of clothing or household items for him to take to the Center.

“They even tell me when their fruit trees are loaded with fruit,” he said. “I go over and pick the fruit—oranges and tangerines mostly—and bring it to the Center when I'm volunteering.”

Harold's volunteer duties have varied over the years, but now he makes sandwiches for bag lunches on Thursdays and cuts hair on Mondays.

When asked if he was a professional barber, Harold laughed. “No, I learned by cutting my two boys' hair,” he said. “Also, my neighbor had a barber chair in his basement, and every week we'd cut each other's hair and then play cards.”

About ten years ago, a call went out for someone to volunteer as a barber at Brother Benno's. Harold was already helping in the kitchen, but he talked to Kay Kutler and told her he wasn't really a barber, but he'd be happy to help out if he could. “Kay handed me a set of clippers,” he said, “and I just got my sixth set.”

Harold had to cut back on his volunteer time recently because of Lois's serious health problems. “I've become more of a caregiver,” he said, “but I still get to the Center most Mondays and Thursdays.” He said it's always interesting in the barber shop. “I hear some stories,” he said. “People sometimes have very different views of things.”

UNIQUE WAY TO GIVE

In December of 2010, the parents of a young man who died at the age of 36 came up with a unique way of honoring what would have been their son's 50th birthday, and contributing to Brother Benno's at the same time.

They asked family and friends to join them at a BBQ potluck. “One of Bob's favorite things was giving,” they said in their invitation. “We are going to gather some things to donate to Brother Benno's. If you would like to contribute, please bring gently used clothing, non-perishable food, and Christmas gifts for homeless children. It will be donated in Bob's name to this great cause.”

Denise Seymour reported that they donated a van-full of food and clothes.

Clothes for every age, size, and taste; lots of books, hardcover and paperbacks; kitchen and bath items; linens; collectibles; videos and CD's; and some very nice furniture.

Speaking of furniture, most of our furniture is displayed and sold in the building next to the Center on Production Avenue in Oceanside. Many pieces of wood furniture have been beautifully refinished, and couches and chairs steam-cleaned. The quality is top-notch, and prices are rock-bottom.

The Thrift Shop is located in Oceanside at 3965 Mission Avenue, east of Albertson's, open Monday through Saturday, 10 to 4.

The Furniture Warehouse is next door to the Center, at 3260 Production Avenue, open Monday through Saturday, 9 to noon.

donate things, but what these people really need is someone to care about them, to listen to them, to be present to them. A staff member at one of the facilities phoned the Center to thank the man who delivered flowers there. "People I've never seen smile before are smiling now," she said.

If you feel that this is something you'd like to be involved with, please contact Heather, who is coordinating the visits. She can be reached at heathertpine.@yahoo.com or 760-433-8623. Oh, and one of the facilities asked for a special favor: Do we know anyone who would like to provide Irish entertainment on March 17, St. Patrick's Day—singers, dancers, or anything else Irish. Heather can set you up for that, too.
