The Brother Benno Scholarship Committee awarded sixteen $500 scholarships in February to students in the Extended Opportunity Programs and Services (EOPS) at Mira Costa College in Oceanside. These scholarships were funded with the help of a grant to the Brother Benno Foundation from the David Copley Foundation.

EOPS is a state and college funded program designed to assist students with economic, linguistic, and educational challenges to enroll and succeed in higher education. Comprehensive support services are provided to promote access to college, and, once the student is enrolled, to increase retention and/or transfer to four-year universities and colleges. The program is available for all ages of people who wish to further their education.

On February 13, Mira Costa College held a reception for the scholarship recipients. Dennis and Suzy Martinek attended as representatives of the Brother Benno Foundation Scholarship Committee, and they handed the checks to the recipients and congratulated them on their accomplishments.

The Committee received thank-you letters from all recipients in which they expressed their gratitude, and many said they hoped to “pay it forward” in the future.

BROTHER KEVIN RECEIVES BROTHERHOOD AWARD

Brother Kevin Dismas Moshier is a Friar of the Sick and Poor of Los Angeles. On a visit to North San Diego County in October 2014, he discovered Brother Benno’s and felt that’s where he needed to be; and he’s been volunteering here ever since. He’s available to talk with Guests—listening to their concerns and assisting them with their needs relating to their spiritual lives, health, documentation, and transportation.

In February, the Archdiocese of Los Angeles presented the Annual Brotherhood Award to Brother Kevin “in recognition of his religious commitment to the service of the Lord as a Friar of the Sick and Poor and his faithful service to the Archdiocese of Los Angeles.”

COVID-19 UPDATE AT BROTHER BENNO’S

An important part of the mission of the Brother Benno Foundation is to feed the hungry. During the month of April while so many of us were helping by staying at home, our Program members, a few volunteers, and our staff have distributed up to 250 bagged meals six days a week. In addition, up to 40 boxes of food have been handed out each day (except Sunday).

Darryl Harris, Operations Manager, collaborated with Feeding San Diego to do even more to help those in our community. Staff and Program members assemble bags or boxes of food and help execute an efficient, drive-through system which provides food to up to 330 cars (individuals and families) every Thursday.

While the Center has remained closed to our Guests, the staff and Program members have been hard at work deep-cleaning the facilities. Program members have been able to participate in daily meetings and continue to work the AA Steps “one day at a time.”

In May, the Board of Directors will be evaluating when to resume currently suspended services, determining when (and how) larger groups can be fed in the dining room, assessing re-opening the Thrift Shop, and ultimately welcoming back our volunteers at both locations.

Please check our website and/or Facebook for updates. Thank you to the generous friends of Brother Benno’s who have provided support to help the working poor, unemployed, and homeless. Your prayers, donations, and love are all appreciated.

BUT FOR THE GRACE OF GOD GO ANY OF US

by Frank Doherty

We recognize that many people have legitimate concerns regarding homelessness, and there has been a negative focus on homelessness coming from the blogs and social media. This article is directed at channeling the focus “from fear to love,” and addressing what our volunteers experience in showing kindness, hospitality, and unconditional love to those in need.

Brother Benno’s serves the community by providing the basic needs of the poor, the vulnerable, and the marginalized; to acknowledge the sacredness of the human person; and to accompany those we serve on a journey toward achieving their full potential.

We all form judgments about the world around us by what we hear and see. As volunteers, we see the faces of our Guests and begin to see them as individuals, each one of whom has a story and is a child of God. The more we get to know them, the more we realize the pain that many are going through, the difficulties of poverty, mental illness, and addiction. The more we see the poor as individuals, the more we see them in light of Matthew 25; and we can be the light in the world, the source of consolation, love, and hope.

Harold Kutler, Founder of Brother Benno’s, reflecting on his life in his dying days, said that in the final analysis, life is all about love. We as volunteers experience that it is in giving that we receive, and that what we receive is an unbelievable feeling of joy and meaning as we serve the poor.

Eighty percent or more of our Guests are families, seniors, and the working poor. We provide a great variety of services to them, including many hundreds of food boxes. Our focus is to help people living on the margin, just getting by, or on the brink of disaster. Our drug and alcohol recovery program is but one example of how we serve those on the margin. The end result of our work is often recounted by individuals whose lives have been saved or who have been helped at a critical time in their lives when they were unable to help themselves.

As volunteers we “learn how to see,” to notice the pain and misery some people are going through as they enter our doors. All of a sudden we realize that we can’t label or broad-brush the poor with a single word: “homeless.” We see the poor as individuals, as God’s children. We see the poor as beautiful, and we wish we could do more to help them. We cease to fear the poor, and instead, realize, “But for the grace of God go I.”

A STORY FROM THE PAST

(From August 2015). A single mom with an infant came to the Center to get food. She left the baby’s stroller on the sidewalk, and when she came out later the stroller was gone—presumably stolen.

One of our volunteers went to a local estate sale warehouse, where he found a nearly new stroller. It was unpriced, and the warehouse owner said she’d get back to him with a price. She called the next day and said the stroller was ready to be picked up; it was being given to us as a gift. Turns out that the manager of the warehouse bought the stroller herself so she could donate it to the mom. Our volunteer said, “What an angel!” The mom was delighted with the new stroller.
